THIS IS L.C.B.M...

. . . bringing to mind thoughts of faculty, students, alumni; of classrooms, lounge and chapel; of studies, work and recreation; of learning self-discipline, making deep friendships, and of drawing closer to God.

In fact, the name L.C.B.M. brings to mind so many things that, if we were asked to describe it, we couldn't say that it was simply an organization, or a composite of students, or a place where people train for Christian Service - because even though L.C.B.M. is all of these things it is more than any one of them by itself.

Our yearbook staff this year has decided to make the theme of our book a presentation of the school itself, and in order to tell this story as concisely as possible we have summarized it in the five theme photographs above, each one of which depicts one major aspect of our school life.

We hope that you will enjoy our presentation of this school as we deal with it under the headings of: Organization and Administration, Faculty and Staff, Students, Extracurricular Activities (the way that the students interact with each other), and a Devotional section (the way that the students interact with their God).

EDITORIAL

Have you ever opened a book and found that it contained no pictures on the pages, no writing or topic titles, and no definite number of pages? Have you ever looked at the cover of a book and found that it was only a piece of cardboard stamped 'to be designed by Sept. 18'?

This may not sound like a very exciting pastime, but actually it is a fair description of the tremendous privilege that the Ambassador staff has each year as they first begin to draw up plans for a new yearbook. What is the story that they will tell on those pages?

It is possible to create a yearbook that is little more than a collection of pictures and names, but it is a shame to do so when those materials can be organized in such a way that they take on a 'personality' and follow an exciting theme. This year our staff has tried to make the personality of our book the very personality of our school - London College. Pictures have been taken, copy has been prepared, layout work has been done, all in an effort to capture the spirit of a college dedicated to 'World Evangelization through Trained Leadership'.

It is our hope that, as you read through these pages, you will share some of the enjoyment that we have had in preparing this book and learning more about our administration, faculty, staff, students, and the way that all of these groups are involved in the work of our Lord Jesus Christ.

This, then, is London College of Bible and Missions.

BOARD OF GOVERNORS

Dear Students:

The Board of Governors extends Christian greetings and hearty congratulations to those who are about to graduate. We are happy to have had a part in your college experience as you prepared to serve our Lord Jesus Christ.

Your service tomorrow will be in a challenging and needy world. We are assured that the training you have received at London College will enable you to serve with distinction in the days ahead. Your knowledge of the Word of God will prove to be useful for your own spiritual nurture as well as for the needs of man who have not the knowledge of the truth. Therefore, proclaim the message with confidence, knowing that God's Word will not return void.

May God's grace be your sustaining portion during the days of testing and triumph which stretch before you.

Yours very truly,
Melvin L. Steinmann
Chairman, Board of Governors.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Students:

Our world of 1968 is characterized by rapid change. Much of this change we recognize as decidedly beneficial to our life and well-being. However, the change is so radical that it seems to mean the destruction of the virtues and values of the past. A new philosophy of life has so pervaded the world that many sober men of thought speak of this as 'the post-Christian era'. This era is the time in which our life and service are placed.

How are we to respond to the world of change that faces us? To answer this question will necessitate a great deal of spiritual discernment. The element of change has brought to us new tools and methods which will greatly multiply our effectiveness in the days of our ministry. We should not, therefore, resist the change because it is new, if the tools and methods can be pressed into the service of Christ. However, men are so enamoured by change that they often destroy the values and the truths that have been meaningful in the past. As Christians we are committed to changeless truths and virtues which are relevant to the situation of any age. These changeless concepts must be expressed in such a way that modern man will comprehend without in any way distorting the truth we are commissioned to proclaim.

A transformed life, enabled by the spirit, will provide the most effective accompaniment for the proclamation of God's truth in man's world. May His grace make each one of us that kind of person.

Yours in Christ,

William R Foster

LADIES' AUXILARY

Mrs. Doris Byron, President

Dear Students:

The Ladies' Auxiliary was formed for the purpose of praying for students and giving toward the needs of the school.

In the fall of each year, the ladies provide refreshments and serve at the faculty reception for new students. In the spring, the same is done for the graduating class.

Our project is to continue to pay for the new furniture in Dixon Hall.

Regarding our prayers - each lady assumes the responsibility of praying daily for one or two students.

Our meetings are always interesting, combining special music, prayer and a message, refreshments and fellowship.

Sincerely in Christ,

Mrs. Doris Byron

The Alumni Executive

Alumni Association

The Alumni Association was formed in 1939 with the purpose of having its members continue their loyalty to the school and their fellowship with each other.

An attractive newsletter published quarterly keeps members informed in regard to the school and their friends.

Fall brings the excitement of Alumni Homecoming with the renewing of friendships, interesting meetings and a banquet. In spring the Seniors are welcomed into the Association at a banquet.

Local Alumni chapters also maintain the loyalty and the fellowship of members.

Election fever runs high in the spring as candidates campaign for the Student Council offices of President, Vice-President, Secretary-Treasurer, Men's Athletic Representative, Women's Athletic Representative, and S.M.F. President.

Those elected together with the Ambassador Editor and Campus Chronicle Editor compose this governing body. Acting as advisors are the Dean of Students and another faculty member.

At weekly meetings policy and budgets are set for student activities. Monthly Press Conferences with the Administration maintain effective communications between these bodies.

S.M.F. Executive: Larry Fehr, Ed Pointner, Lesley Kayser and Bill Smith.

STUDENT MISSIONS FELLOWSHIP

Enthusiasm for missions and an awareness of its needs are created by the Student Missions Fellowship. The executive is made up of a President, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer who decide on major policy. Prayer group leaders are responsible for the weekly meetings of the five groups which are interested in one of each of the five continents. Information is given and interest aroused at weekly chapels. The S.M.F. project this year is the building of a dining hall and kitchen for the 'Evangeli Xhosa' Bible Institute in Transki, Africa.

DEDICATION

It is with great pleasure that we, the staff of Ambassador 1968, dedicate our yearbook to Miss Betty Roberts.

Day by day Miss Roberts continues her quiet work in our library, seldom with any recognition for her faithfulness. Perhaps we take for granted the orderliness and availability of the materials in our library without realizing the hours of repetitive work that go into keeping them that way.

Miss Roberts certainly isn't an ordinary type of librarian. In fact it would be almost impossible to think of her in the classic caricature of the somewhat unfeeling person who furrows her forehead at the least detection of a whisper, because to each one of us, Miss Roberts has become a very special friend.

She seems to understand that sometimes students do forget term assignments until the last moment, and she always seems to know where we can find that reference material to help us get our assignments in on time. She understands that when we are in a hurry we may not remember to express our thanks to her, and she always meets us with the graciousness that seems to typify her whole life.

This is a small way of expressing our appreciation in comparison to the service you have rendered us, Miss Roberts, but it is with pleasure that we dedicate our 1968 Ambassador to you.

SENIOR RETREAT

The Seniors retreated this fall from September 22 to 24 to the Fairhavens Conference grounds.

Cheers and groans were heard from the golf (miniature and regular size) and archery ranges. A competitive spirit made volleyball games exciting. The clear day and calm waters gave the fellows a chance to test their paddle-power. For those who wanted to relax, there were many supervisory positions available.

Me . . . . . an alumnus?

Sure, I remember!

Alumni from different parts of the world and Canada gathered at the college this fall for their Homecoming. Missionaries, pastors, business men and teachers came to recall their days as a students here.

Many began registering on Friday morning. The chapel that day was conducted by the executive of the Alumni Association and Reverend Bernard Crooks spoke.

In the afternoon members' reports were given. A musical presentation by the college choraIe and other members of the student body was greatly enjoyed. Later that evening the alumni went to homes of various faculty members to relax with their former classmates.

On Saturday a dinner was held and Rev. Crooks once again delivered a challenging message.

I think he's going to take our picture!

COLLEGE CHORALE

Warren E. Adams, B. Mus., M. Mus. All who have either heard the chorale, or been privileged to sing under the direction of Mr. Adams, have become aware of God bestowing a very unique gift of directorship upon him.

This year the College Chorale, instead of going on an extended tour, has given a series of weekend performances.

The chorale as a whole as well as quartets and trios have presented the music. The pieces have ranged from Negro spirituals, through traditional hymns to modern anthems. The organists are members of the choir.

In the picture below the president, Bob Luck-Baker, and vice-president, Bruce Twining, are standing in front of the chorale. Also pictured is the new organ. Much of the money needed to pay for this fine instrument has been provided.

There may have been plenty of singing but there was little "fight" at this year's Harmony Hassel. Because of a severe ice-storm, rehearsals were cancelled so the competitive aspect was eliminated.

A full-house did enjoy a combined presentation of selections from 'Oklahoma', the hymns chosen by each class, a soloist, jazz band, skit and children's panel.

Later the faculty and staff (most represented by their wives) served refreshments.

Dr. Roy B. Zuck, Executive Director of Scripture Press, Illinois, lectured in the field of Christian Education at the 1967 Academic Lecture series.

The session topics centered around the Conference theme: Theological Dynamics of Christian Education.

In his concluding lecture the vibrant speaker made a "prescription for healthy churches": "Educationally minded pastors, Biblical approach to laity, aggressive adult education, a new focus on families, a reduction of fevered activity, vibrant ministry of outreach as a result of a deepened burden for the lost".

A school newspaper is a growing thing. There is thought. Thought results in ideas. Ideas are filtered. Many hours are spent in preparation and production and finally the finished product distributes news, questions, concepts and jokes to waiting eyes.

The Campus Chronicle iterates this cycle every two weeks. We seek to interpret the pulse of London College as we apply this process. The measure of success we have attained is due to the valued contributions of about one third of the student body, and the faithful involvement of the necessary core of staff.

This fall a conference was held for people of high school age interested in learning of possible careers.

An informative talk given by Gordon Watts, Director of Guidance Service, Guelph Secondary Schools, began the day.

One workshop session was scheduled in the morning and two in the afternoon. Investigations were made of life in the fields of Religious Education, the Pastorate, Sacred Music, Missions and secular vocations.

Closing the conference was a film strip "Career Unlimited" followed by a speaker, Rev. R. Lawson, Pastor of Central Baptist Church, London, Ontario.

SPIRITUAL LIFE CONFERENCE

A Chapel Session

This year our speaker for the Spiritual Life conference was the Rev. Bernard Crooks, from Parry Sound.

During the morning sessions held in the college chapel Rev. Crooks delivered a series of messages from the first chapter of the book of Galatians. In the evening public sessions were held at Central Baptist Church and many topics relating to faith and the victorious Christian life were dealt with.

Our speaker impressed many with the way in which, as a Bible expositor, he was able to communicate such effectively organized material.

Each of us benefited from the ministry that this conference had to our own spiritual lives.

DAY OF PRAYER

September 9 and January 23 were days of renewal for the faculty, staff and students.

The days of prayer began with a devotional message. Group prayer followed. Next was a time of testimony. A communion service conducted by a local pastor concluded the morning sessions.

Volunteer meetings were held in the afternoons.

In the evening all met for prayer and a final service.

The buzz of conversation as students met and talked with missionaries was inescapable. Obtaining accurate information and settling problems through discussion was an important aspect of the confemce.

Many browsed at the twenty interesting displays. The geographic location of missions, the type of people with whom they work and the methods used were illustrated.

Panel: F. Steele, M. Langdon, L. Collar, M. Griffith, R. Bailey, K. Jones.

THE STORM

In January of this year our campus was gripped by an ice storm that left our buildings without electricity for three days and resulted in having the students from the dormitories live out in the homes of faculty members and friends of the school. These pictures are recorded here in remembrance of the strange way in which this time drew us together as a student body.

More work for the P. U. C.

Where's the dorm?
